MEMORANDUM FOR: Deputy Director for Intelligence

SUBJECT: Assistance in Assembling Middle East
Reference Materials

1. President Nixon's recent public articulation of his intention of turning to the unresolved Middle East conflict after the Vietnam problem is laid to rest foreshadows a possible demand upon the Agency by the White House for certain types of support, if and when a new Middle East negotiating effort is launched.

2. The collection and retention in readily accessible form of documentary literature relating to previous negotiating efforts, and of other research material with possible relevance to peace negotiations, is an important specific form of such support which we are likely to be asked to provide, quite possibly on very short notice. Many of these documents would have relevance to new negotiations, and some of them would probably be indispensable for reference and background purposes in the course of new negotiations. As will be seen from the attachment, listing categories of documents which we should be prepared to provide, the assembling of this material will require some time and effort.

3. I would like you to arrange, therefore, on a priority basis, for all necessary assistance by appropriate DDI components on this task. The collection process should be initiated now, and should be completed as rapidly as possible. It should be closely coordinated with Mr. [REDACTED] Chief, Near East and South Asia Division. As it is probable that much of the support which we may be asked to provide will take place in foreign areas, I have designated Mr. [REDACTED] as my principal coordinator for the overall support effort.

4. We must ensure that our effort to meet this contingency need does not itself stimulate any rumor or speculation about the intentions of the United States Government in this regard. It is, therefore, essential that the search for these documents be confined, at this stage at least, to the Agency itself, and not be extended to any other United States Government department or agency. It is equally imperative that the effort be very tightly held within our own Agency, with only a minimal number of employees involved in the collection process, and only yourself and a designated representative aware of the purpose of the collection.

5. Your designated representative for this matter should work in close coordination with [REDACTED] the designated representative of Mr. [REDACTED] Materials collected by DDI in coordination with Mr. [REDACTED] should be given to Mr. [REDACTED] for retention and disposition.
